What is a wine crystal?

These little crystals that oenologists call Tartrate, in fact are potassium salts of wine acid. Wine/Tartrate acid is the kind of acid that is found naturally in all wines, created by grapes, and it generates the structure, balance and aroma of the wine.

These crystals are being produced in Kvevri (Georgian traditional vessel for wine keeping), bottle or barrel, while the temperature of the wine falls drastically. Wine crystals are found naturally in wine.

The mission of Wine Diamond is to establish a new trend worldwide – “wine jewelry”. Also, to introduce Georgia, Georgian vines and wine, to the world, which has more than 500 endemic grape varieties and a history of 8000 years.
